Level of Intensity of Therapeutic Support for Case Consultation

| 5 | 4 | 3 | 2 | 1 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Minimal | A little | Moderate | Considerable | Extreme |
| Formal case consultation with full school service provider team once per school year or less. Case consultations less than once per quarter with just the classroom team and school clinician. Infrequent contact with outside service providers. No case Consultations involving the consulting psychologist or other outside provider this school year. Parent rarely supplies any updated clinical information from service providers for the family. No placements in psychiatric facilities for the past 12 months. No psychological or other clinical evaluations requested in the past 12 months. | Formal case consultation with full school service provider team twice per school year or less. Case consultations once per quarter or less with just the classroom team and school clinician. Infrequent contact with outside service providers. One or fewer case Consultations involving the consulting psychologist or other outside provider this school year. Parent rarely supplies any updated clinical information from service providers for the family. No placements in psychiatric facilities for the past 10 months. No psychological or other clinical evaluations requested in the past 10 months | Formal case consultation with full school service provider team three times per school year or less. Case consultations twice per quarter or less with just the classroom team and school clinician. School staff have occasional contact with outside providers of service to the student and family. One or fewer case Consultations involving the consulting psychologist or other outside provider this school year. Parent occasionally supplies updated clinical information from service providers for the family. No placements in psychiatric facilities for the past 9 months. No psychological or other clinical evaluations requested in the past 9 months. | Case consultation within a three month period. Case consultations frequently involve full school service provider team.Case consultations often involve the consulting psychologist or other outside provider. Parent often supplies updated clinical information from service providers for the family. School staff are in regular contact with outside providers of service to the student and family. Psychological or other clinical evaluations were requested within the last five months. Student was placed in a psychiatric facility within the last five months. | Case consultation provided once per quarter or more. Case Consultations usually involve full school service provider team. Case Consultations often involve the consulting psychologist or other outside provider. Parent frequently supplies updated clinical information from service providers for the family. School staff are in frequent contact with outside providers of service to the student and family. Psychological or other clinical evaluations were requested within the last three months. Student was placed in a psychiatric facility within the last three months. |

Kevin Plummer, Ph.D. School Clinical & Consulting Services